Greetings to Research Resource Colleagues!

This time of year is always associated with the end of summer and the start of the new school year. It is also full of new activities, knowledge, and life experiences for many of the children and adolescents going back to school. Unlike many other health-related professions, occupational therapy has a major presence in our school systems and plays an important role in helping every child reach their potential and to feel part of the education system. We salute all of the research being done relevant to providing the evidence base for best practice for OTs in our school systems and to the OT practitioners providing this integral service. Here’s wishing a happy and productive school year for all!

Best wishes,

Scott Campbell, PhD
CEO

A Selection of Recent Resources for School-based Occupational Therapy

The 2018 Nedra Gillette Endowed Research Fellowship is now open

This one-time award of $1,500 is in support of a postdoctoral researcher's foundational occupational therapy study into the human condition as it is influenced by health, participation in valued roles, and social justice. The award is open to postdoc OTs in a postdoc research program or non OT postdocs in an OT research program with mentors. Application deadline is October 14, 2017; see the AOTF website for more information.

AOTF Seeks a Scientific Programs Officer.

Join the AOTF team and develop, implement, manage, and evaluate the Foundation's scientific programs.

Knowledge for Social Change: Bacon, Dewey, and the Revolutionary Transformation of Research Universities in the Twenty-First Century

Employing history, social theory, and a detailed contemporary case study, Knowledge for Social Change argues for fundamentally reshaping research universities to function as democratic, civic, and community-engaged institutions dedicated to advancing learning and knowledge for social change.

Doctoral, Post-Doctoral, and Research Training Opportunities
Postdoctoral Fellow in Disability Policy Research at The Lurie Institute for Disability Policy, Brandeis University

The primary goal of these two-year fellowships is to prepare scholars to conduct rigorous research that can be applied in today's complex policy environment. Applicants must have received their doctoral degrees within the past three years and must have advanced statistical training. Applicants with earned doctorates in disability studies, economics, public health, public policy, social work, and sociology are particularly encouraged. Competitive stipends are available, based on experience. For fullest consideration, please submit your completed application prior to October 15, 2017. Contact Michelle Techler, Assistant Director, Lurie Institute for Disability Policy with questions.

Postdoctoral Fellow Opportunity - University of Florida

The Dept. of OT invites applications for a full-time postdoctoral fellow under the mentorship of Dr. Sherrilene Classen in multidisciplinary research with a focus on driving rehabilitation science. Applicants must have a PhD in Rehabilitation Science or a closely-related field and are preferably licensed/license-eligible as an occupational therapist in the state of Florida.

Postdoctoral Fellowship in Multiple Sclerosis Research - Johns Hopkins University

The overall goals of this two-year postdoctoral research Fellowship funded by the National MS Society and Johns Hopkins Dept. of Physical Medicine and Rehabilitation are to:

1. Train clinician-scientists who will go on to be leaders in the advancement of rehabilitative strategies for people with MS.
2. Equip trainees with the skills needed to become independent, grant-funded investigators.

This program will provide clinical and research training in MS-related rehabilitation science.

For more information, contact Meghan Beier.

Postdoctoral Fellow Position Washington University School of Medicine in St. Louis

One position is available for a highly motivated PhD interested in translational occupational therapy research in aging. The primary task of the postdoctoral research fellow will be to conduct research in the area of function and the environment for cognitively normal older adults aging in place. The focus of the research will be on identifying functional changes over time for older adults with and without preclinical Alzheimer disease and preventing falls among community dwelling older adults. The role involves working in a team-based environment and collaborating with different researchers on a range of projects. The research includes analysis and preparation of manuscripts for publication based on data from clinical studies, as well as the preparation and submission of grant proposals.
